JAP DIET DISSOLVES IN FIGHT COLLEGE CONFERS WITH LEADERS

FISTS FREELY FLY AND WATER FLASKS HURLED

Session Marked by Turbulent Scenes Which Resulted From Attempts of Opposition to Interpellate Government Relative to Attempted Wrecking of Train Carrying Their Leaders.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
TOKYO, Jan. 31.—The Imperial Diet was dissolved today following scenes of the greatest disorder in which water flasks were thrown and fists used. The disturbance resulted from a vote of the opposition to interpellate the government regarding the attempted wrecking of a train at Nagoya carrying opposition leaders.

The turbulent scenes which occurred in the lower house made further business impossible. The outbreak came shortly after the representatives had taken their seats upon the resumption of the Diet session.

Interpellating the government in connection with the train wreck, in which three prominent opposition leaders escaped injury, although the locomotive of their train was damaged, the speaker of the Diet, Kiyoura, refused to rise. Great disorder immediately ensued, amid which Kenjiro Komatsu, manager of the Diet, attempted to reply to the interpellations. Amid the confusion an agitator, not a member of the Diet, rushed down the platform and engaged in a fist fight with the speaker. The speaker continued until the speaker of the house hastily declared the session adjourned. The session was followed by dissolution of the Diet.

Six rallies were held in Tokyo by the representatives, to a ovation. The Diet, for the first time in its history, was dissolved by a vote of the opposition.

Viscount Takahashi, Kiyoura, leader of the former national party and one of the leaders on the train. They were en route from an opposition rally at Osaka to Tokyo for the Diet session. The train was damaged by the wrecking of the locomotive by logs and stones piled on the track.

The incident was one of a series marking the bitter fight between the newly formed cabinet under premier Kiyoura and opposition leaders, who are using ruffianism as a weapon.

Within the past 48 hours political "bullies" known to the Japanese as "bushido" have been attacking the political foes as they are passing through the streets. The formation of a "privileged class cabinet" under premier Kiyoura upon which so-called democratic elements are waging a bitter battle.

The markers will be placed at frequent intervals pointing out the route. The road is a route which is described as generally in fine shape.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 31.—The senate today passed the Booker measure protecting operating marketing associations from contract "breakers." The vote was unanimous and the bill now goes to the house for action.

This bill, providing for the restoring of the old ward lines in the city of Danville, has been referred to the committee on privileges and elections, and will receive consideration in the near future.

A BILL,
To amend and re-enact an act entitled An Act to incorporate the City of Danville, approved February 17, 1920, as heretofore amended, by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 2a of Chapter 4 of the said act, which new section relates to the council, councilmen, wards, and form of government of the said city.

TOWN TOPICS

The financial returns of the three city public utilities during the month of January were the largest in the history of the city, Frank Talbot, superintendent of the city schools, stated this morning. His check to the city treasurer will be $200 short of $80,000 constituting a new record for collections in any one month in January 1924. The receipts totalled approximately $54,000, he stated. Collections from the electric light and gas departments in January are always heavy for payments made in January. Include gas and power consumed up until December 20th, when mercantile establishments are open until nine o'clock and when a good deal of preliminary Christmas cooking is taking place.

City Health Officer Garnett announced this morning that as soon as the dental clinics in the city schools are brought to a close, probably next week, he will establish clinics for the purpose of "innoculating" children against diphtheria. The toxin used in the vaccine will be given only upon the consent of parents and only in the event the child is shown not to be immune following the Schick test. Dr. Garnett said that the encouraging response has been shown during the past few days to the appeal he issued some time ago. One of the reasons prompting the health officer to stress the value of toxin and toxin is the high rate of diphtheria infection last year. There were 82 cases in Danville and five persons of this city succumbed to the disease. Two additional persons brought to local hospitals from out of town points also dying. Dr. Ennion Williams of the state board of health is writing postcards to local physicians urging on them the importance of diphtheria immunization.

The Kiwanis Club held their regular meeting in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. E. this afternoon. The new board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were special guests of the club which also heard an address on fire prevention by Alfred T. Fleming of New York.

The Mid-Winter camp meeting of the Salvation Army, an annual affair, will begin tonight at the local organization's headquarters on North Main street and continue through February 17th. Special programs have been announced for the meetings. Brigadier William Crawford, divisional commander for Virginia and Washington, D. C. will be the speaker at the closing service on the 17th. Young People's secretary, will also make a talk.

Meade R. Flynn, deputy clerk of the United States court, has received a letter from the attorney general's office calling attention to the fact that the special period in which aliens who served with the United States forces in the world war may become naturalized without complying with the usual requirements will terminate March 17th. Under the Act of Congress approved July 19th, 1919, aliens who served with the United States land or naval forces, were accorded special privileges in becoming naturalized citizens. The act eliminated many of the formalities which are otherwise required such as the necessity of a declaration of intentions, exhibition of proof of five years' residence, payment of $4 filing fee and the usual 90-day delay from the time of formal application to that of final hearing. Mr. Flynn stated today that four or five persons in Danville have availed themselves of the opportunities given by the act and have become American citizens.

TRY TO PROVE HYLTON SEARS IS UNBALANCED

(Special to The Bee.)
WENTWORTH, N. C., Jan. 31.—The preliminary stages of the trial of Hylton Sears, charged with murdering Mrs. D. Ernest Purcell, which were completed in the Superior Court here when court adjourned last night, were followed today with the taking of testimony. Few cases of recent years have aroused such interest as this and one of the largest crowds ever seen at Wentworth was in evidence this morning.

The State had put upon the stand five witnesses and had presented its case of murder. One defense witness taken the stand and the defense would seek to show that Hylton Sears is of subnormal mentality, a theory which will stand or fall largely on the testimony of Dr. Crane, State alienist, connected with the University of North Carolina. The State Welfare Department who submitted the youth to a long series of interrogatories yesterday and conducted an other state, have been making up his mental state. While there are many witnesses still to be heard, it is anticipated that the defense will rest by the middle of the afternoon possibly permitting the conclusion of the summing up for the case to reach the jury by tonight.

State Solicitor S. P. Graves of Mr. Ainsworth's residence, payment of the $4 filing fee and the usual 90-day delay from the time of formal application to that of final hearing. Mr. Flynn stated today that four or five persons in Danville have availed themselves of the opportunities given by the act and have become American citizens.

The actual murder was readily established in the morning session when state witnesses were put upon the stand. Dr. McGhee, further testimony was given by the State. Dr. McGhee, further testimony was given by the State. Dr. McGhee, further testimony was given by the State.

Summons Senator Walsh and Senator Robinson— If First Meeting With Democrat Leaders Re- garding Oil Case—De- bate Over Daniels' Poli- cies.

(By the Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate were consulted by President Coolidge today just before the debate on the Walsh oil lease annulment resolution resumed.

The conference was the first the President has had with Democratic senators since the oil lease inquiry assumed its major proportions. Sias Strawn, one of the special counsel selected by the President to conduct the government's investigation, arrived at the White House almost immediately with the two senators but did not go into conference with the president. Arrangements were made meantime for a conference between Mr. Strawn and J. Crawford Biggs, of Raleigh, N. C., an attorney who has been intimately acquainted with the oil land policies carried out by Secretary Daniels under the Wilson administration.

The Senate oil committee held no session, but three physicians were called to the apartment of former Secretary Fall to examine him for purpose of testifying as to his condition in connection with the investigation.

Two cabinet members placed their resignation before the president, it was rumored. It was indicated the president would accept the resignation of Senator Lodge, the Republican, and Senator Robinson, the Democrat. Mr. Coolidge has selected Thomas W. Gregory, of Texas, a former democratic attorney general, to succeed Mr. Lodge. Mr. Gregory is on his way to Washington. There were evidences yesterday, however, that something might have gone amiss in the plans, and it was rumored more apparent today that the make-up of the government's counsel was a subject still occupying a large space of attention in administration circles.

DAUGHERTY'S LIFE HAS BEEN A STORMY ONE

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 31.—Bending his head against a blistering north easter which occasionally sent down stinging bits of rain, Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, took the first walk of his Florida vacation. The tall end of a cold wave in the north was pushing the mercury down to a variation between 62 and 72 degrees—cold weather for these parts.

The attorney general was all alone. He had been denying himself to all callers—friends and foes and so when he left his carefully sheltered rooms in one of the more modest hotels here at the beach he walked out entirely unaccompanied. No one who saw the attorney general, no one with an ounce of compassion in his nature, would have broken into the loneliness of that solitary reverie.

Mr. Daugherty's visit to Miami Beach has brought up all the past, the ghost of happier days than those which now confront him.

It was here just a little less than a year ago that Harry Daugherty, the friend and foe of the political fortunes of Warren G. Harding, announced to the world that Mr. Harding would be the unanimous choice of his party for renomination this year and would be re-elected beyond the shadow of a doubt.

It was the first formal announcement that Mr. Harding had decided to stand for reelection. There were many who knew he was in the White House, Mr. the job in the White House, Mr.

FORTUNE'S FOOL

by Rafael Sabatini
Author of Scaramouche and Captain Blood

Begins In THE BEE

February 2

Like all Sabatini's stories, Fortune's Fool is a tale of action from the first page—of adventure, of love-making, of vivid character painting and of breathless interest and suspense to the last line. Don't miss the opening chapter of this thrilling serial by

THE GREATEST HISTORICAL NOVELIST OF TODAY

Having begun it, it's safe to say you won't miss an installment till it ends.

Harding had looked upon government as a simple thing. He had been sadly disillusioned. He had no idea of the arduousness of the task. Both the president and the cabinet were in a state of confusion. He had his first real experience with the job hunters and the favor seekers and he was sick at heart from both of them.

But when Mr. Daugherty spoke, the entire political complexion of the country changed. Mr. Harding would only smile at the interview given out by his attorney general. Yet it was taken as granted that this was a candidate this year. When he announced his trip to Alaska, the politicians heralded it as a swank around the world. The sentiment of the country, Mr. Daugherty then announced that if the papers continued to refer to his trip in that light, he would not take it. The papers remained silent. Mr. Harding went to Alaska. The rest is history.

It was thought that the death of President Harding would mean the immediate quitting by Mr. Daugherty of his cabinet post. His relations with the president had been those of a close personal friend rather than a public official. But Mr. Daugherty had been under fire in certain quarters and he decided that if Mr. Coolidge elected, he would remain at the head of the department of Justice.

Mr. Coolidge announced he wanted no changes whatever. So Mr. Daugherty remained. His position, however, was not as pleasant as it seemed. His bitterness with which he has been assailed in Congress and out.

But Mr. Daugherty has other memories of Miami Beach than those that deal with his second launching of the Harding boom. On his first trip here in 1921, he and Albert B. Fall, then a senator, but soon to become the secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet were members of the president-elect's inauguration party in Florida waters. Sunshine has been none too plentiful in Mr. Daugherty's life but there is no doubt that in 1921 he was one of the happiest men in the world. He was playing his political acumen, and his steadfastness of purpose which had placed Warren Harding in the presidential race and kept him there.

Harry Daugherty had many political knocks back in Ohio, but the appointment as attorney general was to be his vindication, his great chance to serve the public in a capacity which particularly pleased him, and would be the climax of his long career at the bar.

Mr. Daugherty was particularly happy in that February of 1921 to know also that his friend Albert Fall was to be a member of the cabinet with him. The two were inseparable in the Harding party. They fished together, walked and talked together, were the two closest men of the party to the new president. Albert Fall was confident and self-reliant and for Harry Daugherty, fortune's frown had turned to smiles. From beginning to end it was a gay party, that fishing and hunting trip of 1921. It reached its climax here at Miami Beach.

And now three years later, Harry Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, is here. He is broken in health, but is a first class fighting man for all of that.

His best friend, Warren Harding, is dead. His next best friend, Albert B. Fall has been a subject of investigation by the attorney general's own department. Mr. Daugherty has felt compelled to step aside in any activity against his fellow cabinet member, but he formally and resolutely had asked that no one be spared in the independent investigation. In spite of all this, he is publicly asked, "an incubus" was Mr. Coolidge. It was fate perhaps that the attorney general should arrive in Florida in a storm. But it is of his own volition that he walks alone—any man can walk a multitude of thoughts which stretch far out over the years.

EXPERTS SHIFT INQUIRY TO THE REICH CAPITAL

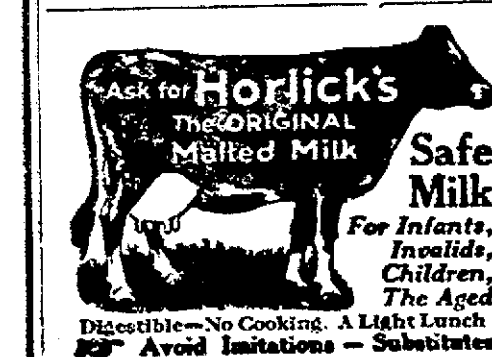

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
BERLIN, Jan. 31.—The scene of the inquiry into German finances shifted to the capital of the Reich today, as the first committee of experts, headed by Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, settled down to work on Germany's budget and currency problems.

Assurances of the complete co-operation of the government and of financiers and banks, it appeared, would make the experts' task chiefly that of formulating their conclusions from the vast amount of data which will be laid before them. The government itself has prepared a budget for the current year, compute don't estimate the money and facilitate the flotation of a new gold currency issue.

With this financial statement to work on, the experts also will be confronted with extensive information on Germany's fiscal condition, including a statement of the reparations payments in cash and kind she has already made. They will also be supplied with full information on the Reich's railways which, it is expected, will figure largely in the experts' final plans for the salvation of German finances.

Many prominent industrialists, financiers and transportation magnates have signified their willingness to give the committee all facts and figures to offer testimony. Tomorrow will find the second committee, headed by Reginald McKenna, of Great Britain opening its inquiry into reported German capital, the return of which, it is felt is of much importance to put Germany on a "paying basis" from the standpoint of the reparations commission. The members of the second committee include: Henry M. Robinson, of Los Angeles, California, arrived from Paris last evening.

What's Going on in the World

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

Before Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, leased (or, according to Senator Walsh, father of the investigation, virtually sold) the government oil lands at Teapot Dome, Wyo., to the J. P. Sinclair interests and at Elk Hills, Calif., to the E. L. Doheny interests, he seemed very happy. He couldn't even pay his taxes, anyway he didn't. Afterward, he had money enough to buy a big new ranch and make improvements costing altogether $180,000. Caraway estimates. Was there any connection between the oil leases and Fall's improved financial status? That's what the pending investigation is intended to find out.

Fall's Story.
Fall first said he bought the ranch with $100,000 he borrowed from E. B. McLean, the newspaper owner. McLean said it was true he gave Fall a $100,000 check, but got it back again, uncashed.

Archie Roosevelt.
The late Theodore Roosevelt's son, Archie, was an official of one of the Sinclair oil companies. He heard from G. D. Wahlberg, Sinclair's secretary, of a $68,000 payment to the foreman of Fall's ranch. This made him so suspicious that, mindful of his own reputation, he quit the Sinclair job and told his story to the senators who were investigating the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills cases.

Doheny Heard From.
Then Doheny was heard from. Appearing before the investigators, he claimed it was he who loaned $100,000 to Fall to buy the ranch. He said he did it because he and Fall were very old friends. He did it some Members of the sub-committee were in session late yesterday and again today, completing their work. It was stated several members said they expected the report to be finished today and reported to the committee tonight. No details of findings have been given officially, but those in close touch with the committee said that it had been decided not to recommend a license tax on automobiles in Washington, operated in Virginia. Joie Ray Faces Difficult Task

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—For Ray, sturdy little Chicagoan who has led the ranks of the distance runners for practically a decade, faces one of the hardest tasks of his career. It is to take rank among America's chief Olympic hopes this year. This was the opinion of track followers today after "Chestey Joie" failed in a valiant attempt to score a double triumph in the mile and a half and a half mile races at Madison Square Garden last night, winning the mile and a half but finishing last in the two-thirds of a mile race.

Ray showed to better advantage than at any time this season on hanging up his single victory but his time was 7 seconds behind the world's record he established in winning the same mile race a year ago. In the shorter race the Illinois A. C. Ellier was outclassed from the start except for one brief spurt and in his place a new Satellite, Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A. A. flashed to the fore. Hahn's victory, scored within two fifths of a second of the world's record of 2:43 3-5, was his second of the season over Ray and established the Bostonian as real Olympic contender. Ray, who conquered such racers as Ray Watson, Illinois A. C. half mile champion, and Jimmy Connelly, Newark A. C. and record holder.

Small Fire Found In Temple Basement

The city fire department at about four o'clock this morning received its first call to the Masonic Temple where a fire was discovered in the basement under Patterson's drug store. The fire was caused by a storage of stock. Two cases containing patent medicines became ignited and had filled the basement with smoke before it gradually began to permeate the upper story. The fire was discovered by a janitor in charge of the building at night, noticing it called out the fire department by telephone. Smoke was thick in the lobby when the firemen arrived but perceiving there was no fire in the drug store they sent a hurry call to Clifton Forge, where a number of men came and unlocked the glass doors instead of breaking the plate glass. Firemen reached the basement of the store with difficulty for the fire had released, acid and pungent gases from the medicine and the smoke was unusually dense. personality of the great composer and pianist, Tschakowsky. Mrs. Joseph Dunington gave a charming outline of his life and works and Mrs. Laura Janos Fuessell, of Randolph Macon Institute, sang three of his songs. Always pleasing, Mrs. Fuessell interpreted the peculiar melancholy and spiritual quality of the great composer in a manner surpassingly beautiful. In the numbers, "None But The Lonely Heart," "Disappointment," and "Why," the support given by Mrs. Edwin Meade in the accompaniment was sympathetic and strong. The last number on the program, B Flat Minor Concerto, rendered by Miss Ruth M. Root, of Averett College, and Sam Souts, was a fitting close to what was perhaps the best musical program given by home talent this winter.

Griffis Will Lose No Time Coming Back to America

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
BERLIN, Jan. 31.—Corliss Hooen Griffis, of Hamilton, Ohio, former army officer who was sentenced to 18 months in jail at Mosbach, Baden, for alleged conspiracy in a plot to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, is again a free man. Released from prison late yesterday afternoon after serving less than two months of his sentence, Griffis left Mosbach immediately, proceeding to Stuttgart, accompanied by Mr. Magnuson, the American vice-consul.

Griffis' plans were still unknown early today but it was assumed he would lose little time in returning to the United States.

The pardon came as a real surprise to the former officer, although he knew that friends in America were working for his release.

The understanding is that Griffis was preparing to cross the German frontier this morning on his way to Paris, possibly about the time for the formal announcement of his release to be made in Berlin.

The foreign office officials explain the reticence observed with regard to the Griffis case yesterday as "due entirely to the mass of formalities through which a case of this magnitude must pass."

HELPFUL HINTS

SOAP PASTE
Save all your bits of scouring soap, put them in a cup or pan and add boiling water to stand just about an inch above the soap. The bits will dissolve and form a paste that is very convenient to use.

CURDLED SAUCE
When a custard sauce curdles set it in a pan of ice water and beat with a Dover egg beater until it is smooth.

MOIST CAKE BOX
Keep an apple in your cake box to keep the cake from drying out. Change the apple, of course, whenever it begins to show signs of withering or decaying.

AIKING CLOTHES
If the air in a closet or wardrobe seems close and dead, place your electric fan in there, let it operate for a few minutes and the condition will be remedied.

RUBBER GLOVES
If you want your rubber gloves to last a long time, care for them this way: after each wearing wash and rinse them and pat them dry with a soft towel. Dust with talcum powder to absorb all moisture.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 31.—Ermino Spalla, Italian heavyweight, arrived here from Europe today aboard the steamer Pincio, appearing to be in good form for his coming match with the winner of the Firpo-Lodge fight.

Spalla said he weighed 133 pounds. He has no doubt that Firpo will beat Lodge and that he in turn will defeat the South American champion. He counts upon his speed and ability to use both hands.

He is not afraid of Firpo's punch. On the voyage from Marseilles, Spalla trained with the French boxer Bertal, middleweight champion of the French army, who has contracted for three fights in this city. An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

It was sweet of you, Leslie dear, to recommend me to your husband, especially as you must know why I am leaving your father, who is one of the best and understanding men I have known.

I am quite sure I would have liked to stay with him always. I am doing better here than I have done in all my life, but I want to get away from Sam.

Don't be shocked, dear. I'm only saying what probably hundreds and even thousands of married women think every day of their lives. Neither Sam nor I have been very happy since our marriage, which was a great mistake.

Both of us saw this before we had been married a month, and I expect Sam has been just as anxious to get away from me as I have been to get away from him.

Of course, I could not leave him alone during his blindness, but now that he has got back his sight, I feel perfectly justified in getting out of this mess as soon as possible.

Sam and I do not think alike on any subject in the world. He is a very good business man along his own lines. He has no vision. He will never be anything but a plain employee, dubbing along on a good salary. He is always afraid to take the initiative.

I, as you know, am entirely different. Some day I want to be perfectly independent. I want to work for myself, and I am sure that with your husband to teach me I will be able to attain my ambitions not very far in the future.

Now, my dear girl, I have come to the real gist of my letter—the thing for which I have written this preamble—that is, I want to place myself in just the position with you that I can keep up as long as I stay in your husband's employ.

I want you, Leslie, to forget that we have been anything more than chance acquaintances, and accept me as your husband's secretary.

One cannot mix society and business, especially an employee cannot keep up in the society of her employer. It would be very foolish of me to try to do so and would only end in disaster.

Occasionally, perhaps, if you ask me, dear, I will come to your home and dine with you if you are alone, but I do not want your husband ever to meet me socially. Please do not say this is foolishness, for I have tried it and I know. One reason I have been so happy here is because your father is, because he absolutely understood and did not invite me to his home, although your mother is kind enough to do so.

Don't think I am ungrateful, Leslie, for our friendship. I am only trying to lay it away carefully in my memory until some time comes when we can be friends again.

Lovingly yours,
SALLY.

BOLL WEEVIL CALLS FOR PROMPT ACTION

THIEVES REMOVE CARPETS FROM TWO CHURCH FLOORS

MAINLAND, Pa., Jan. 30.—When members of the historic old Wenta Reformed Church, on the Sunnyside pike, gathered for worship Sunday morning the interior of the edifice had a barren appearance, for the carpet in the aisles had been stolen. When members of the Lutheran church, just across the road, assembled they found their carpet also had been removed.

Nothing else at either church was disturbed. About 80 yards of carpet was taken from one church and about 45 yards from the other.

MEASURE INTRODUCED TO DOUBLE THE TAX RATE ON INTANGIBLES

Increase From Fifty-Five Cents to $1.10 Is Proposed in Bill Presented in House of Delegates—Designed With View to Effecting Equalization.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) RICHMOND, Jan. 31.—An increase in the tax rate on intangibles from 55 cents to $1.10 is proposed in a measure introduced by Delegate Moffett, Augusta county, in the Virginia House today.

The bill was designed with a view of effecting equalization between intangibles and real estate and if adopted would result in increasing the State's revenue during the next biennium approximately $1,000,000, according to the author.

"When we reduced the rate on intangibles at the last regular session a loss of $500,000 was sustained by the State," Mr. Moffett said. "Since then business conditions have improved greatly and if we restore the old rate of 10, 15 and 20 per cent on intangibles we will be adding to our revenue."

"The present rate on real estate in counties varies from $2 to $4 so it is really realized the rate of 5 cents on intangibles is unjust."

Equalization was the principal subject of conversation among the lawmakers today. The address by Dr. John Garland Pollard, a member of the commission on simplification and economy, yesterday in support of the Gunn equalization measure, now in the senate, brought the subject of equalization to the fore.

Failure to correct what termed in the present system of taxation might result in 1925 when re-assessment of real estate throughout the state is made, in a much larger deficit than the one now existing.

Dr. Pollard warned many counties, especially those in the southwest, he declared, were not paying their just proportion of taxes.

As a representative of one of the so-called "robber counties," Mr. Russell asserted, I want it to be known I disagree with the eminent professor and lawyer, Dr. Pollard, in almost every proposition he makes.

"First of all, I do not agree with him as to raising $3,000,000 in southwest Virginia without also bankrupting the farmers, if not actually bringing armed resistance. Furthermore, I consider his plan of equalization very partial toward capital and very injurious to the farmers."

None of them can earn interest on their investments. Why does not Dr. Pollard include in his plan of equalization a proposition to have capital in his business assessed at the same rate as the revenue, just as are the tools and the machinery of the farmers?

"Is it not a fact that out big business is being protected and favored on the theory that we must encourage capital and protect prosperity? Does our eminent authority adopt the argument of the New England protectionist if he does so, if so the farmer the man whose business needs that protection?"

And further should not his plan of equalization include a measure that will equalize between classes of property as well as between sections?

"Land and farmers tools and stocks are now paying 85 cents to $1.25 on the $100, total taxes, local and state on the real value of the property, whereas notes and bonds pay only 55 cents per $100. Equalization should remove this discrimination in favor of moneyed interests and against the so-called robber counties."

Dr. Pollard agreed that in no city of county is property assessed at the fair market value as required by the constitution and laws. The under-assessment varies from 85 per cent in Hopewell to 9 per cent in Grayson, he continued.

"If we lawbreakers are going to rob our state, then in the name of justice let us have an equal division of the booty," he exclaimed. "I appeal to that honor which is said to exist among thieves."

DANIELS DENY POLICIES SUBJECT OF HOT DEBATE

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Differences of opinion cropped out again today among members of the House Naval committee as to whether Secretary Daniels followed the policy of his predecessor, Josephus Daniels in his leases of the navy.

Inquiring into the Sinclair-Doheny naval reserve leases, Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, declared he would show that Daniels followed in Secretary Daniels' footsteps.

This statement brought the remark from Representative Vinson, Georgia, ranking Democrat of the committee, that "no one believes that but you."

"I'll prove it to you before we get through if you will be fair," Mr. Britten retorted.

The exchange came after Rear Admiral Latimer, judge advocate general of the navy, had reviewed how Mr. Daniels in 1920 had introduced legislation to permit the navy negotiate for tank construction for the storage of naval oil. Authority then granted by Congress, it was brought out, enabled Mr. Daniels to arrange with the Doheny interests for tank construction at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii out of royalties for oil from the California naval reserve.

Admiral Latimer testified that Daniels, after becoming head of the navy department, saw it was necessary to take action to prevent depletion of oil in the naval reserves.

"The navy department had no organization," the admiral continued, "and Mr. Daniels realized valuable time was being lost in forming one. At the time the interior department had an organization which was handling oil production on millions of acres. Mr. Daniels believed this organization was the proper one to act for the navy."

"You must remember that at the time there was a great effort on the part of various departments to avoid duplication of work and economize." Declaring he was not familiar with the procedure followed in transferring the leases from the navy department, Admiral Latimer said he understood that the executive order for the transfer was issued "at the request of Secretary Daniels."

"Mr. Daniels told me," said the admiral, "that he had initiated the transfer after investigating the question and consulting with various experts."

FAIL EXAMINED BY THREE PHYSICIANS

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—With the War resolution directing the president to move for annulment of the naval oil leases still tangled in the net of senate discussion, three physicians today examined former Secretary Daniels to determine independently the investigating committee whether his condition will permit him to appear soon for questioning.

Admiral H. S. Shreve, one of the physicians selected by the president to represent the government in court action growing out of the inquiry, continued while his examination of former Attorney General Gregory, who will act with him and the house naval committee proceeded with its inquiry into the disposal of royalty oil.

The house committee yesterday heard Rear Admiral Gregory, chief of the bureau of naval affairs and docks and the admiral's lawyer, Judge advocate general of the navy and has invited Secretary Daniels, who remains under fire in the senate due to his connection with the oil leasing contracts to present his views. The senate committee held no session today, despite the request yesterday of E. L. Doheny, holder of the California oil lease, to be heard for a further hearing, but it will meet tomorrow to receive the oil magnate then.

SAVED FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR BY ONE DAY

By STEVE HANNAGAN
SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Giuseppe De Metteo has been snatched from his grave to spend the rest of his life, walking, talking, eating and sleeping in a walled tomb that has a sky for a ceiling.

But he is happy. Sitting in his solitary confinement cell in the morbidly romantic murderers' row, he was preparing to meet his Maker on the morrow the rapid death of the electric chair.

But tomorrow never came. For the "next day"—his day of doom—was extended indefinitely for this man convicted of instigating the killing of another. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Al Smith.

On the day he was to die, the day harnessed lightning was to leap from his head to feet and still the life within him, he was walking in the prison garden.

It was the first real freedom he had enjoyed since May, when he began his death-house vigil.

On the day he would have been a corpse, had the court's sentence, unjust in this case, been carried out, I talked with him in the arid prison garden.

"I am in good luck," he explained in broken English, shrugging his broad shoulders, and flashing his dark eyes in a gesture that could be only Italian.

His warm Latin blood was cooled by the chilly winter winds that eddied through the big Sing Sing yard. He rubbed his hands and hands to induce warming circulation.

"Now I want to go to work," he said. "I want to be a fireman—to work in the stoker's pits."

But for a few days, at least, he will have the freedom of the yard—the nearest approach to liberty at Sing Sing—until this man, who was prepared for death, again becomes accustomed to the novelty of living.

Lifers in Sing Sing are the best behaved of all prisoners, according to the officials. They are all hopeful, always awaiting the cherished day when fate will free them.

There is one life term—well into his sixties—with many hopes on his aged body, with no one on the outside to care. He would be lost without the routine of the prison.

Yet, he insists he has enough money to care for his family in his own years. He is always cheerful, carrying his burden of sorrow in brave fashion.

He is sure he will be released some day.

door was locked behind. The electric chair, as unimposing as any in your living room, except for the attached straps, faced a row of pews. It is a solemn scene. The walls are bare except for one sign. It is tacked over the door through which you here and have you subjected to slights by people you will have to meet. To carry you elsewhere would not avoid this treatment. The situation is horrible and difficult to handle. I must think kindly of me as I now and will not do that which when done cannot be undone. No man should marry any lady if he has doubts that the marriage could not be best for both parties. I know you so well and esteem you so highly that I'll hear from you I am sure you will agree that we should not in justice to you and myself, go further now. I hope you will promptly reply to this in the same spirit as it is written. Nothing has ever so disheartened me as this.

"I would and won you because I loved you. My heart is yet pure and true. I will not subject you unjustly to rudeness or undeserved affront. Please think kindly of me as I now and evermore will of you."

A letter on September 30 alleged to have been written by Mr. Candler with no salutation stated: "As promised, I am doing my best to get the actual truth of the statements made to me that reference was made to in my letter of September 20, 1922. I have been told by a citizen of Atlanta that while you were a guest of the Piedmont Hotel during the reunion convention of the U. C. V. he saw you in a room, at least with two other ladies."

You assured him it would be perfectly satisfactory that he visit you. He did not go. He said he could not home telephone, invited him to visit you when in New Orleans. He promised to do so. When in New Orleans he telephoned to the number, was informed you were not then in New Orleans.

"I got the above statement by agreeing not to divulge his name until such time as he will consent. I am pursuing the investigation so privately that no publicity will result."

The other letters read in the record this morning related to Mr. Candler's trip to Reno.

One was in reply to a letter from Mrs. De Bouché stating that her attorney had informed her that he had refused to divulge the names of the two men. In it she stated her intention of coming to Atlanta. She denied the charges and said: "All I ask is simply justice."

The letter asserted that investigation would prove the charges false. "I refuse to be made an outcast," it added, and set forth her intention to resist any slander.

After the series of letters had been read the deposition of a number of New Orleans acquaintances of Mrs. De Bouché were offered in evidence. Their testimony dealt principally with Mr. De Bouché's reputation and activities in New Orleans. All testified that such reputation was unquestioned.

MARRIED TWELVE YEARS BEFORE BABY CAME

Gladly Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Louisville, Nebraska. "I was married twelve years before my boy was born. I had a lot of female troubles and had been treated by a physician for them but they continued much the same. Then I read your advice and I came to the newspapers and thought I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a good trial, for if it had helped others, why not me? I have taken 26 bottles of the medicine and am never without it in the house. My baby boy is three years old now and I sure am happy since I got relief from my troubles. When any one has troubles like mine, or any ways like mine, I am always glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound so that they will get the right kind of medicine." Mrs. JOE NOWAK, Box 662, Louisville, Neb.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

SLAYER'S STORY DON'T TALLEY WITH THE FACTS

Ohio College Student Confesses to Killing Classmate Bu Says It Was During Fight After He Made Despairing Remarks About Friend.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Apparently unperturbed by the fact that he faced a probable charge of murder, Halton P. Siddall, of Equality, Ill., a senior at Ohio College, told police he had slain his friend and classmate John Mazzola, son of a wealthy Panama City merchant, and disposed of his body by throwing it into a creek.

Mazzola's body, with a bullet wound and numerous stiletto cuts was found in shallow water early yesterday.

Declaring that "under the same provocation I would do it again," Siddall told the officials that he and Mazzola went for an automobile ride at the latter's suggestion. "When they were driving along, Mazzola, he said, made a despairing remark 'about a friend of mine,' and a fight ensued. He declared Mazzola drew a stiletto or knife and slashed at him with it. After struggling for 15 minutes in a closed automobile, Siddall said he scuffled to a revolver and pitched him over an embankment into the creek, police declare the overcoat was found fifty feet away.

The prisoner also said he did not know what became of the dead man's stiletto or a diamond ring and diamond stick pin he is believed to have worn. These articles "were" missing when the body was found.

The confessed slayer steadfastly refused to say whether it was a man or a woman about whom Mazzola made the alleged despairing remark. It was said Mazzola's brother, a dental student at the University of Pennsylvania, would arrive today to take charge of his brother's body.

Siddall's father who is a hardware merchant at Equality, was notified of his son's arrest and left at once for Cincinnati.

Haymes and Walton at Gretna on Visit

J. H. Haymes, of Richmond assistant director of warehouses of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Market Association is here again today with E. L. Walton, regional director of the association's affairs, to meet on a business visit this morning.

They were expected to return late this evening. Mr. Haymes was here several days ago and on that occasion admitted the purpose of his visit was to discuss with local officials the establishment of a credit bank for "pool" members and which would have the co-operation of the intermediate credit bank founded by the government to assist farmers affiliated with co-operative movements in the production of their crops. No date has yet been set for the meeting which Mr. Haymes said would be held here at an early date. This possibly may be determined before Mr. Haymes leaves Danville.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is Calomel, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds, coughs, sore throat and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness unless the liver is made thoroughly active. This is why the first step in the treatment is the nausealess calomel tablets called Calomels, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and colds and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One or two Calomels at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your nervous system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Genuine Calomels are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, vest-pocket size—adv.

A HAPPY OMEN OF PROGRESS

The choice of James T. Catlin, Jr., as executive head of the Chamber of Commerce which this year enters
 upon a new era pregnant with possibilities for large community service
 is highly commendable and one
 which we believe meets with general approval. The directors have secured
 a young man, one of conservative
 and mature business judgment and
 what is of greatest importance, one
 who has shown a tendency to promote progressive policies in this city
 in the past and one who is keenly alive to problems which confront Danville and the solution of which may be described as vital to the welfare of this city's economic life. The selection of Mr. Catlin as president of the Chamber of Commerce should be
 and, we believe, is eminently satisfactory to the two elements of which the organization is composed with
 the largest membership in its history.

With the characteristics which have already been shown by Mr. Catlin
 together with a capacity for work
 along constructive lines should go a long way towards welding the two groups now constituting the Chamber of Commerce and making the organization a potential force in the normal expansion of Danville in a business way. The responsibilities
 this year are greater than they have ever been before with at least one
 well recognized vital problem which rightly falls to the Chamber of Commerce—one which relates to the relationship between the people of this community and those of the rural adjacent territory. The policies of the Chamber of Commerce remain to be defined but at an early date it is expected that the membership will be called together at which time a full opportunity will be given for an expression of ways and means of promoting the best interests of this city.

PERVERTED AIM IN LIFE

The columns of the daily newspaper reveal a host of personalities,
 characters and just folks, all a part
 of humanity, but each as different from the others as ether from earth.
 It would be a platitude to philoso-phize here on the axiom, "No two people look alike," but to observe that "No two people hope and aspire
 as one" might provide a new perspective from which humanity may view
 itself.

All healthy human beings entertain ambitious and aspirations in varying degrees. The cynic tells us that the vast majority of modern men
 and women aspire to worldly wealth
 with no thought of mental perfection,
 public service and philanthropy. And then there are men and women who think only of others and of serving mankind. The art world is peopled with men and women who live for art and art alone. But among all
 there is an indistinct hope for
 fame, or at least prominence.

This human yearning for the reward of others and the distinction of superiority or individuality reveals itself differently with different people.
 There is the man or woman who has traveled widely and perhaps social
 circles for publicity and notoriety.
 There is a class which aspires for public fame rather than recognition
 in the community. Others are content with estate-wide prominence,
 a few aspire to national repute and a select few gain world renown. Many have won fame without seeking it,
 but more have sought fame in vain.
 It is to be feared that most mortals
 do not give assent to the Hubbardian
 epigram, "The reward of a good deed
 is the doing," and just in that lies the distinction between the genius and

the ordinary man.
 The evolutionist predicts a time
 when men will perfect the mind for perfection's sake and vain love of fame and honor will not actuate humanity to achievement.

A BIG JOB CALLS FOR BIG MEN

Intimations that George B. Christian, Jr., secretary of Mr. Coolidge's predecessor, was to be named to the vacancy created in the Federal Trade Commission by the departure of Victor Murdock, have been confirmed by a White House nomination.

With all respect to whatever personal attributes the gentleman possesses, this appointment is extremely unfortunate. The Federal Trade Commission, if it exercised its prerogatives to the legal limit, would constitute one of the most important and
 effective of our instruments of government. It has assumed practically every power of the attorney-general
 and many functions of the courts in the suppression of combinations in restraint of trade; it regulates trade practices; it might have a decided though indirect control of prices, if
 it cared to assert itself.

But the manner in which the commission is exercising these broad powers is accurately illustrated by the fact that when the administration
 wants to know something about the anthracite industry, a 100 per cent.
 monopoly if there ever was one, it
 appoints a special commission to dig
 up facts.

Mr. Christian's association with trade is confined to some knowledge of the cut stone business. While this places him at no disadvantage in comparison with the rest of the commission, his presence certainly will bring that body no nearer its proper capacity for achievement. The commission is headed now by a former senator with no conspicuous qualification for his place. The remaining members are similarly undistinguished
 in the matter of preliminary training. Party regularity and a provincial law training appear to have been their sole recommendations
 for appointment.

"PUT UP OR SHUT UP."

It has been suggested more than once that the best plan to abolish wars would be to enact laws by which
 every diplomat, office-holder, politician, orator, editor and flag-waver
 who urged war or kept the war feeling alive would be the first conscripted and placed as a private in the front rank.

That, of course, is a somewhat fantastic suggestion for in America as elsewhere some of those who do urge war have served in it bravely, not only as commissioned officers, but as privates. But the existence of such a law in this as in other countries
 would do much to discourage jingo-
 ism by those who feel perfectly safe
 when the "jackjohnsons" come whizzing over.

There are other ways by which
 hope is justified that war can be averted and it is unseemly that a few
 United States senators with their fellow-conspirators on the outside are endeavoring to dim all hopes. Mr.
 Bok's proposal to the Senate Committee that if it is not satisfied with
 his efforts to obtain a plan for world
 peace, they themselves suggest an alternative proposal was as smashing
 an answer as could be given. In less elegant words, let the senate "put up
 or shut up."

THREE TRAINMEN

KILLED IN WRECK

(By The Associated Press)
 FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 30.—Three trainmen were killed and eleven passengers injured, none seriously, when the Buffalo-Pittsburgh express of the Pennsylvania Railroad southbound,
 was derailed on a curve at the St.
 Georges water tower, 22 miles south of here today. Two coaches and a pullman car were partly overturned,
 an express car was partly submerged
 in the Allegheny river, while a combination baggage and mail car
 plunged into the hillside. The engine, a 4-6-2, was derailed and turned around at the edge of the river, the tender sinking below the surface.

The dead are: James Huling, engineer, W. R. Jenkins, fireman, and a negro porter.
 Huling's body was found under
 the engine, badly crushed while that
 of Jenkins was found 50 feet away.
 The porter was on his way through the pullman car when part of the roof was ripped off as the car turned partly over. A portion of the roof
 struck his head, crushing the skull.
 Most of the injured passengers were riding in the pullman car. The injuries of but two of them necessitated their removal to hospitals. The others continued their journey after receiving first aid treatment.

After leaving the rails the train
 ploughed along the roadbed for a distance of several hundred feet.

"George W. Fletcher
 was directed by a court
 order to provide suitable
 stabling facilities and accommodation for a horse
 which, he admitted, had been standing in an open
 field for the past month.
 He had an excuse, however, for permitting the horse to remain so long in the open.

"Fletcher said the stable was crowded to the limit by livestock,
 and that in order to keep the horse
 from suffering during cold weather
 he had placed a heavy mattress over
 the horse and on top of that he had
 fastened a bed blanket, two quilts
 and two rubber sheets. In addition to these he had equipped the horse
 with a rubber headgear to keep off
 the wind, rain and snow, and had also placed rubber pants on the horse's legs. People passing the Fletcher premises thought it was moving dead horse home.

"Fletcher told the court that the horse was fed regularly the same as
 other horses, eating while still loaded
 down with the bed, mattress and coverings, rubber headgear and trousers.

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT POLLE

SPIDERS

Would you live if bitten by a tarantula spider? It is commonly supposed to be more deadly than a rattlesnake. Cleveland Museum of Natural History publishes reports to the effect that tarantula bite isn't more
 deadly than the sting of a bee.
 This proves nothing. The sting from one bee has often caused death. It depends on the person stung. In stinging, the bee injects a mysterious poison fatal to certain people with diseased endocrine glands. Ordinarily, the safety-first process is to ignore the sting and rush to some one who can extract the stinger with a pair of pliers. Then apply iodine,
 the best antiseptic for all purposes.

Having lived in the southwest, we are intensely interested in the Cleveland Museum claim that the bite of a tarantula is no more dangerous than
 the sting of a bee.
 Where did they get their tarantulalas? A lot depends on that. Maybe the spider family is like snakes. The farther you get away from the center, the less poisonous the bite of a snake.

In the Georgian Bay country of Canada, a rattlesnake bite rarely
 kills if proper remedies are applied.
 In the semi-tropical desert, snakes
 are more poisonous.

QUEER

Snakes are peculiar, have queer ways. You'll recall, snakes are very old—once became famous in the Garden of Eden with Adam and Eve.
 Old people tell us that a man in the desert could keep snakes
 away from him by sleeping in a circle of horsehair tied together. The idea is that a rattler won't cross the brelle.

"The Goose Girl." There was a girl in our town.
 And she was wondrous wild.
 She used a little charcoal stick.
 And she was very, very wild.
 But when the boys had found her out,
 She ran with might and main
 And used a lot of soap and dope
 To wash it off again.

Our objection to work is that there
 are so many other things to do.
 The constable of a certain North Carolina town got real excited when he received from the chief of police
 at one of the larger cities the photograph of a roguish looking fellow.
 The constable was wanted for burglary.
 Two weeks later he wired the chief
 the following: "I have arrested five of the men and am going after the sixth tonight."

In the opinion of Joey Doolittle,
 when a fellow begins to complain
 that his work is not appreciated, it merely means his boss is getting on
 to him.

THE POISONED GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

A novelist-seeking nocturnal adventure finds a girl in evening dress
 in Grosvenor Square, London. The girl informs him that she has poisoned herself and wants to die. To all his pleadings she answers "Go away."
 He asks a strange man to call a taxi to take the girl to Middlesex hospital. On the way to the hospital the girl fights to jump from the
 cab. Calling at the hospital early the following morning he finds the girl
 unconscious and is assured of her recovery by the nurse in charge.

The girl says she is Lady Grace Tar-
 set of 216 Grosvenor Square and that her father is the Marquis of Goswin.
 She says she has quarreled with her lover, Carlo Scarlati, pianist. The novelist promises to bring Carlo back to the girl. Calling at Scarlati's hotel,
 the novelist learns that the pianist
 has gone to the Hotel Superbe, Brussels. He calls at the home of Lady Grace and is grudgingly admitted to the sick room, where Lady Grace is slowly recovering health.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 In the morning she had had an interval of lucidity, for now she was again rather comatose. She did not
 at first seem to recognize me, though I pressed a lax hand and reminded her of the incidents of the night. She only when I pronounced the name of Scarlati that she revived: "Where
 . . . yes, I remember you
 now, where is he?"

"He's in Brussels. I'm going to him tonight."
 "Oh, you must bring him back. I shall die if you don't."
 I did not reply for a moment. I asked her now more than she had done before. It was not only her extravagant beauty, but her limps, her
 weakness, her complete forlorn-ness. Again I had to keep down the impulse that as a pianist she had
 made her to my arm, console her,
 wean her away from this absurd insaturation. But it would have been no use: her heart was as surely given to the faithless one as Titania's to Bottom the weaver. So, after a while I left her. She laid upon me a trail by saying: "If he doesn't come back soon
 I'll have to try again."

Thus, next morning, just after nine,
 so as to be sure to catch him, I presented myself at the Hotel Superbe.
 Yes, Mr. Scarlati was in, but would see nobody. This cost me twenty francs given to the porter. The valet confirmed that Mr. Scarlati would see nobody. This cost me a hundred francs. The situation was no humorous that I wondered whether Scarlati
 would charge me a thousand francs.
 In fact the solution was simpler. For the valet came back to say that his master would not see me; thereupon,
 being, as I have said before, six foot
 two in height, I informed him that I would knock his head off if he annoyed me, and walked into bedroom where Scarlati was having his breakfast.

"What the . . . ?" began the
 musician.
 "I apologize for disturbing you,"
 I said, closing the door and sitting down.

CHRONIC NEPHRITIS

Chronic nephritis is a disease of
 the kidneys when the process is in the stage of sclerosis, atrophy and contraction, whatever may have been
 the primal cause.
 Two important reasons for the prevalence of this disease in the United States are: (1) the prevalence of diabetes, which takes a death toll of about 70,000 each year in the United States; and
 (2) the fact that the disease is caused
 from some bacterial infection from an outer source or from some disease of the blood.
 Second, it is due in many cases to
 a high use of protein foods (meats)
 and animal products. Arterio sclerosis, or hardening of the smaller arteries, and general contraction of the kidneys is another cause.
 Where infection is clearly the cause the primal agents were mainly tonsillitis and scarlet fever. Even though the attack may be slight, the disease is a serious one and it is necessary to ward off and future
 attacks on the kidneys from the pos-
 sion of these destroyers.
 Abuse of protein requirements in providing for the needs of people in temperate latitudes is a strong cause of indurated kidneys. People of the United States and Canada consume
 far more amounts of protein in the form of meat or animal food than do
 the races of tropical countries. Tropical people are far more temperate in their eating, and rarely, if ever, suffer death from chronic nephritis.
 The common habit of over-eating throws far too much work on the kidneys, and excessive work of this sort weakens any organs or glands to
 the danger point of disease and atrophied condition. The sensible diet is a strong weapon with which to fight
 off chronic nephritis. Vary your diet
 with vegetables and fruits and vegetable oils whenever possible. They act as a strong counter-balance to the protein foods.
 Do not get any account, if you believe yourself afflicted with chronic nephritis, as does yourself with some medicine that claims to be a kidney cure. Such treatment is usually of no value and often can do real harm
 to the over-worked kidneys.

"Danville Preferred"

You're a Stockholder--- Help Yourself to Interest!

THE FACT that you live in Danville—makes you a stockholder in Danville. This is true whether you own property or pay rent—whether you're in business for yourself or lend your efforts and energies to another business—whether you are active or passive. What would you think of a stockholder in any business that let his coupons go unclipped—that was vitally enough interested to be a stockholder, and not vitally enough interested to further the cause in every possible way he could.

Yet—that's just the situation—unless you do your best for Danville—

(paradoxically you collect interest by lending interest—and you cannot avoid being a stockholder.)

Therefore it's obvious how much you benefit by giving Danville your best—how directly your interests are Danville's—and vice versa.

That most citizens are serving is evidenced by the definite progress Danville is making. That Danville will progress that much more rapidly if every citizen will lend his best—so that he may in turn collect greater return—is evident.

So this is our plea for your co-operation—trade at home—boost for Danville—help the other fellow so that he may better help you.

Efforts Made to Get Yankees to Play in Danville

TEAM MAY PLAY DODGERS HERE ON WAY NORTH

Danville rapidly is coming to the front in the sporting world. Danville is scheduled here for the night of Feb. 1 and 15 and it developed yesterday that the World's Champion New York Yankees Miller Huggins Babe Ruth et al may play here on or about April 10 their opponents to be the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

Charles Davis is promoting the project and he already has received an encouraging telegram from Miller Huggins in which the Yankee manager says that it may be possible to arrange to play at Stoneyale in Danville. Mr. Davis received a telegram some days ago in answer to his own wire that it would be impossible to arrange a date for this city. Yesterday, however, Huggins sent another wire in which he let out hope for a game adding that he would send another wire in a day or so giving definite information as to whether it would be possible to come and naming a date.

THE GREAT LEGS CHAMPIONSHIP

All of a sudden-like legs have walked up to the speaker's table and demanded conversational attention along with such toothy subjects as "The Curse of Mah Jongg" and "The Great Unwashed Stylist."

Poy-eyed world will never be right until it is definitely settled whether Mistinguette, in this corner, gets, or Gilda Gray, in that corner, both members of this club owns most alluring set of props

Mistinguette came over from France with only pair of $1,000,000 legs that ever kinked unblushingly at a camera's lens. Miss Gray took one look at them and mumbled something about unimportance of European currency

Gilda seized another three-second flash at rival's million-dollar self-clad legs and hissed scornfully, "The cat's ankles!" And now you know how that started

"I'll bet $10,000 mine are prettier in the world," challenged Gilda, leading trim ankle in black silk chignon. French champion countered with neatly trimmed calf in open-work stockings and referee stepped between them. "Lucky hound," muttered boys in nickel seats

Because none of the males of the country will serve as judges, beautiful-legged Championship may go by default. Males are not interested in things like that. Other things are not interested in are gold, pre-war Scotch, par golf scores, ring-side eats and Roll-Royces

You never hear of modern lipstick adjectives being about $1,000,000 dish-washing hands, best looking big shoes, or cutest home-made gingham aprons

Best way to a man's heart may be through his stomach, but be careful to keep him away from hosiery ads in the magazines

We used to think Kitty Gordon was daring child, teeming with wickedness, when she defended beautiful-legged Championship against all comers, but ladies in current leg tournament make her look just like a back number

The old-fashioned man about town may not have had much excitement in his day, but he seldom came home with a sprained neck

Some day ladies will hold international tug-of-war to find out who wears biggest and most comfortable shoes. On same day you'll read about heat prostration in the arctic zone

MANY OPINIONS ON HOW TO PLAY GOLF

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 30—Golf is a game of changing thoughts and shifting theories

Once you were supposed to put all the power into a shot with your left hand. Today it is the right which provides the main force

They used to tell you the club head preceded the hands by a matter of inches in driving from the tee. Slow motion pictures show that the hands actually precede the club head

In days gone by the run-up approach was considered the only proper way to get close to the pin. Then came the bunkers and multi-directional traps. Now if you can't play a high pitch approach to the green you are all out of luck

DAILY PUZZLE

The drawing shows four rows of numbered blocks. The only figure which does not appear on any block is 6. Arrange the blocks in each row so that that particular row will form a number divisible by 6. The top row now forms 123, which is not divisible by 6, hence the figures will have to be rearranged. The blocks may be set in any position, and changed from row to row if necessary

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

By LAWRENCE PERRY (Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—Usually stadium figures are printed, every one draws a long breath over the immense cost of the arenas and neglects to consider the receipts. Figures that have just been submitted by L. S. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State show that the $1,500,000 stadium completed by the University—and friends—in 1922, has proved the most profitable investment the university has ever made. This statement is ours—not Mr. St. John's. State in the past two years has gone through unsuccessful football seasons judging success on the basis of football victories. But as a result of ownership of a stadium in which to hold the games, net receipts have returned interest on the investment at a rate which insures that the stadium will be owned unencumbered in about three more years. The unsuccessful and often unspectacular Ohio State eleven played seven games last fall, but, aided by the seating capacity of the vast amphitheatre, these games earned net profits of $174,250. The amount owned on the stadium still amounts to $472,000. If the net football receipts could be applied to paying off this indebtedness in toto the plant could be paid off within three years and the way cleared for the erection of something else equally costly

Nearly $150,000 worth of unpaid stadium pledges are outstanding and are apparently regarded as "bad debts." Of course, amid the hoopla and hooray of a stadium drive there are bound to be those who pledge that which they cannot pay. But certainly $150,000 would seem to represent an unreasonably large number of Welchers

Receipts of $595,409.83 for the fiscal year ending June 30 last are accounted for in expenditures of like amount for the period between July 1, 1922 and June 30, 1923. Anything like a balance seems to have been prevented by heavy outlay through news of $209,000 assumed on the stadium in charges and the like

DEMPSEY FLOORS THREE ONE AFTER ANOTHER IN RALEIGH

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 31.—Jack Dempsey took on three strong partners in succession tonight and without rest longer than time required to run in a fresh fighter, went through the exertions in thrilling style

The champion floored each of them from more to three times and tenderly picked them up as they fell before his onslaughts. Other things that Dempsey did was to "Puncher" Palmer, heavyweight champion of Ohio, Joe McDonald, Heavy of Hamlet, and Bob Williamson lightweight of Norfolk and partner of the late Billy

U. S. DEFEATS ENGLAND AND WINS RIGHT TO MEET CANADA

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 31.—The American Hockey team, playing under wraps after the first period, defeated England today 11 to nothing, clinching first place in its end of the draw and reaching the semifinals. The Yankees tomorrow play the second team in the upper half, probably Sweden

The teams lined up as follows: United States Position Great Britain Lacroix Goal Harris

The Americans opened with a rush. Drury scoring from a pass from Rice, 50 seconds after the period began. The British attack opened against Small at right defense but he hooked the puck and took it down the ice from in front of his own goal, scoring unaided

England then moved Putblado and Holmes into the forward line, bringing back E. Carruthers and Sexton. This so stiffened the British defense that it was only after five minutes of play that Rice, in combination with Drury, was able to cage the third goal

He repeated again a minute later on a long shot from 70 yards off. Drury then scored from a mixup in front of the British goal. Abel ended the tallying for the period with a brilliant rush straight down the ice. Frank Sinton, of Boston, replaced McCarthy at right ring two minutes before the whistle

SPORTS GOSSIP

The fact that First Baseman Joe Judge of the Washington Nationals is so easily injured, handicaps greatly his value as a first sacker

Manager George Sisler of the Browns says Catcher Pat Collins will be used more often this year

Now that Casey Stengel is to be a member of the joke Boston Nationals, he will have an excellent setting for his comedy act

This Speaker is banking on Southpaw Joe Shaute and Jim Edwards to win berths as regular pitchers the coming season. Shaute is the more promising of the two, because he has a better fast ball

Manager Chance of the Chicago White Sox figures Pitcher Blankenship, the husky right-hander, will come through for him this year. He is handicapped his work last summer

Manager Huggins intends to stand pat on his trio of catchers, Schilling, Huggins and Bengough. Both Huggins and Bengough delivered in the pinch last season. Huggins when Schang was forced out, and Bengough when both Schang and Hoffman were on the injured list

McMillan, who played second, third and short for Boston last season, will be used exclusively at third by the Red Sox. The position is his if he can deliver. His batting is the doubtful feature of his play

C. B. Davis, Jr., has taken unto himself an idea and much of an idea it is. He has got in touch with Huggins, Yankees manager and has strong reason to believe the midget manager will bring his world champions here for an exhibition game around the first of April

If the proposition is carried out, it will be the greatest day in the life of Danville. The Yankees are touring with the Brooklyn Dodgers and those two teams can present the greatest array of stellar players in the major leagues. The Yankees will present Babe Ruth, the king of home run swatters, Everett Scott, one of the greatest catchers of all time, Jimmie Foxx, a slugger, and Long George Kelly covering the initial bag. Wally Schang will be on the receiving end of the battery and Bullet Joe Bush "Sad" Sam Jones, Waite Hoyt, the boy wonder, Sailor Bob Shawkey and all the rest to decorate the home of Danville fans. The Yankees are touring with the Brooklyn Dodgers and those two teams can present the greatest array of stellar players in the major leagues

The league heads are showing signs of considerable intelligence. They have in a rash and thoughtless moment, went and hired themselves a statistician to keep Piedmont records for 1924. Now the "dear people" will be able to keep up with what their favorite men are doing without going batty over a flock of figures in trying to figure out batting, fielding and various and sundry averages. Much praise to the mighty moguls

Annual Athletic Carnival Tonight

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—National champions and Olympic team candidates will seek athletic honors with over 500 representatives of the various city departments in the third indoor annual athletic carnival of the municipal athletic activities committee at Madison Square Garden tonight

The outstanding feature will be a series of three sprint races at 40, 50 and 60 yards, in which Loren Marchion, the national title record holder, will meet among others, Bob McAllister, former national champion, who established an indoor record for 100 meters at the Brooklyn College games last Saturday

Harold M. Osborne, present Devon champion will endeavor to break the world's high jump record which he established last week in Chicago while Orville Wampler, giant policeman, who sports the sash of the New York Athletic Club, is expected to star in two features—the shot-put, in which event he is the national champion, and the 50-yard far man's race, confined to city employees weighing two hundred and ten pounds or over

BROKE WORLD'S RECORD

(By The Associated Press)

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 29.—Arne Borg of Sweden, broke the world's record for the one mile swim today swimming the distance in 22 minutes 34 seconds

The previous world record for the one mile swim have been, for open

One of the chief reasons for the likability of Dempsey and his success is a total absence of the swell-headedness that is usually exhibited by any champion fighter. From all reports Dempsey is just like the rest of the human race with the exception that he can knock the block off anything else in the world that wears pants. He is a clean living, unspoiled sort of person and is not a degenerate conscious of the fact that he is the champion heavyweight fighter of the universe. He seems to feel that his business is boxing and attends strictly to that business. He doesn't put in half his time soaking up bottle booze and being a devil of a fellow in general. For those very good reasons he is apt to remain the chief of the box fighting fraternity for some time to come. The Dempsey party puts in a lot of his spare time keeping in condition and doesn't worry so much about how he is going to get rid of his accumulating dollars, all of which bodes well for the thumper, in the year that are yet to come

The Sportsman

By Walter Camp

By WALTER CAMP (Copyright 1924 by The Bee)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Evidences are piling up that the proposed rule forbidding tennis players to write on the game is going to make an interesting session out of the United States Lawn Tennis Association meeting next month

Most of the tennis authorities of California and New York have gone on record as favoring the rule, while Chicago and Philadelphia seem to be getting all set to oppose it. One of the Chicago writers proposes letting Tilden go on with his work as a reporter, but preventing others, when they reach tennis fame, from capitalizing their successes by writing. Another contends that it makes no difference whether a man is a good writer or not, and that the question is whether or not he makes his living out of tennis through his writing

How to get together a flock of ball players who can and will actually play baseball skillfully enough to attract fans to the park and still keep under the Piedmont salary limit seems to be the biggest problem confronting managers in this country. The way things stand about $200 a month is the top price a player can receive if the pilots wish to have enough of said animals on hand to fill up all the necessary cracks on their clubs. Any ball yard artist who has proven that he is worthy of the name, isn't going to waste much time hanging around parks at that price. He will go somewhere where they pay real money for smacking a baseball

The league heads are showing signs of considerable intelligence. They have in a rash and thoughtless moment, went and hired themselves a statistician to keep Piedmont records for 1924. Now the "dear people" will be able to keep up with what their favorite men are doing without going batty over a flock of figures in trying to figure out batting, fielding and various and sundry averages. Long Distance Campaigning Wins Votes

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 31.—Here is a hunch for political aspirants the country over:

If you want to get votes for election to office, leave home and take a trip abroad.
A hopeful politician here tried it and found it worked fine. And now he passes along the tip to all others—except his own opponent for office.
You see, Robert R. Reynolds, called "Bob" in these parts, had been a variety of all player, newspaper reporter, broncho buster, lawyer and prosecuting attorney. But all that didn't appease his taste for excitement. So he decided to become a politician and announced his candidacy for the lieutenant governorship of the state.
Then, instead of swinging around the circuit making stump speeches appealing for votes, he built himself a little home on a flivver chassis and set out for a trip around the world.

Long Distance Campaign
He has just come back from a five-months' tour, accompanied by a cameraman who shot about 20,000 feet of movie film, while Bob shot back thousands of appeals for votes.
The main idea behind the venture was not electoral but political.
"And it sure has worked," says Reynolds. "For it's like this: If John Smith in the hills of North Carolina gets political propaganda from me at Asheville, he's likely to toss it into the fire without even reading it.
"But if he gets a letter postmarked 'Tokohama, or Paris, or some other place away off on the other side of the world, he's going to open it and

Some times it seems to dad that after he has slaved all year he has nothing to show for it except a calendar from his merchant.—Country Gentleman.

ROBERT R. REYNOLDS, CANDIDATE FOR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORSHIP OF NORTH CAROLINA AND THE FLUORINER IN WHICH HE MADE HIS CAMPAIGN THOUSANDS OF MILE FROM HOME.

"He's also going to think that Bob Reynolds is mighty thoughtful to remember him and go to the trouble of writing."
"Guess I'd better vote for Bob when election comes around," is the resulting mental resolve.
Reynolds mailed more than 5000 letters and cards to the folks back in North Carolina. And, of course, he didn't forget to mention the little matter of his candidacy in any of them.

In all the political aspirant covered 30,000 miles on the trip, 8000 of them being made by auto.

Some of the movies that were made will be used in commercial news weeklies, but most of them will be exhibited in North Carolina schools and colleges.
And it's probable that the movie shows will take up Reynolds' campaign matter of his candidacy in any of them.

Buck's father, M. C. Brendlinger, of Pottstown. The husband came down from his home immediately and opened the letter. It read:

"For God's sake, dear Dad, try to forgive me. There was nothing else for me to do. Please see that my body is cremated and that the ashes are thrown away. And pray for me. I am sorry, Dad."

The husband related the story of the fortune teller to the police and stated he believed that was why his wife ended her life. Customers, who talked with her a half hour before she died, remarked upon her seeming good humor. A half consumed orange was also found in the store.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Directors of the United States Steel Corporation today declared an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/4 per cent and 1 3/4 per cent on the preferred. An extra dividend of quarter of one per cent was paid in the preceding quarter.

CARLIS HOOVEN GRIFFIS FREED

(By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Corlis Hoo-ven Griffis, of Hamilton, Ohio, imprisoned in Baden for his part in the attempt to kidnap Grover Cleveland, Bergdorf, American draft evader, at Eberbach last summer, was released at six o'clock this evening and left immediately for Stuttgart. He was accompanied by American Vice Consul Magnuson.

Throughout the day the foreign office denied that final action with respect to the release of Griffis was imminent and even contended that the situation remained unchanged in view of negotiations alleged to have been going on with Washington through the German embassy.

The Badenese minister of justice at Karlsruhe also declared that there were no developments in the case, when asked earlier in the day.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS

DAN DOBB BUYS THIS BIG NEWSPAPER

Herewith we beg to announce the purchase of this big newspaper. We use the word "purchase" advisedly inasmuch as no cash has yet been paid. We have none at the moment. But we have lots of credit. The former owner gets no cash and we get the credit, as it were.

Also, with this issue, the paper changes its name to Dan Dobb's Daily. This being leap year any young woman may propose another change.

No change of policy is intended. Our fearlessness of consequences is notorious. We don't care who laughs at us.

As usual we shall befriend the poor, overworked pun.

We shall pursue every wise crack to its liar.

No lordly phrase has any more chance with us than the lowliest noun.

We believe the paragraph is mightier than the swordfish.

Our motto shall be: That's a darn good one.

EDITORIAL

Spring and fall are the worst seasons for Congress. The weather is so hot in summer we cuss it instead of Congress. In winter it is so cold we cuss winter instead of Congress. But in the spring and fall we have no weather that needs cussing so we blame things on Congress.

DAN DOBB'S KITCHEN

One way of setting yourself in solid with the wife is to run off in the morning without scraping eggs out of the frying pan.

FOREIGN NEWS

A Frenchman has an auto that runs on charcoal. Americans have Fords that run on credit.

HEALTH HINTS

A man flew in a pasteboard airplane at Topoka, Kas., but it is not a very healthy habit.

CLUB NOTES

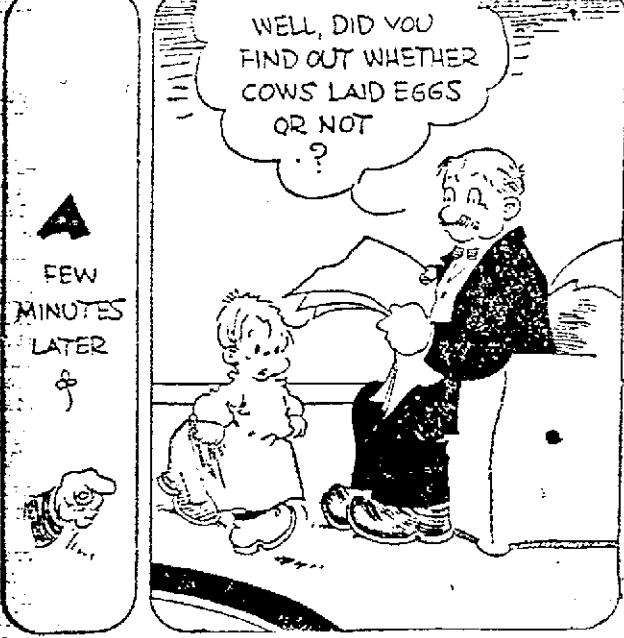

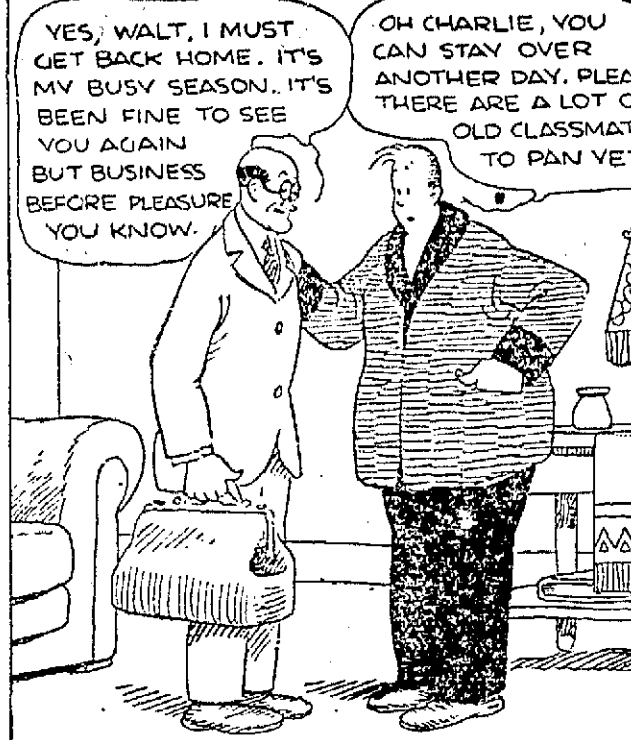

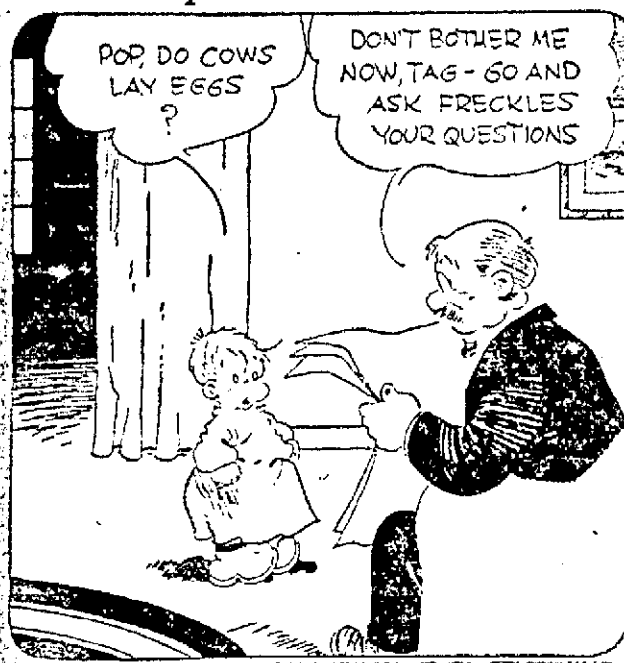

A woman in Campton, N. H., has a rolling pin 115 years old which she uses daily. No doubt the pin owes its useful old age to the fact that it is used on dough instead of husbands. Some rolling pins are used on husbands to get dough, but such pins don't last long unless the husband is soft-headed. Instead of hard-headed. Most husbands are hard-headed.

"THE OLD SOAK"

Raymond Hitchcock, Himself, Coming to The Majestic Next Monday Night.

A distinct theatrical novelty is announced for presentation in this city Monday, February 4, when that irrepressible comedian, Raymond Hitchcock, comes in the stellar role of Don Marquis, year-long New York success, "The Old Soak." "Hitchy" has become so closely identified with musical comedians that his appearance in straight comedy will be the occasion for rejoicing among his legion of admirers. The departure has been brought about through the knowledge that the star is so thoroughly equipped for legitimate comedy characterization and the fact that the author has evolved a role that precisely fits the unique method of the comedian. Long a familiar member of Don Marquis' initial theatrical brain child, a column of whimsicalities and philosophy in the New York Sun, the humorist fashioned a play with the Old Soak in the theatre, gave Mr. Marquis' initial theatrical brain child a hearing in his Plymouth Theatre in New York, and doubtless to the utter chagrin of professional playwrights, "The Old Soak" instantly caught the public fancy and continued the reigning success of the year in New York. The engagement of Mr. Hitchcock for this season's tour lends additional interest in the presentation, because it is conceded that "Hitchy" has no equal as an exponent of stage drollery and shines with special radiance in portrayals of homely human types such as Clem Hawley in "The Old Soak." Prices 50c to $2.50, plus tax. Reserve seat sale opens today.

THRILLING GAME

WON BY CADETS

LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 30.—In a hotly contested game replete with thrills the V. M. I. Cadets downed the clever Lynchburg Athletic club tonight by the score of 25 to 21. Both teams displayed a brand of basketball that kept the crowd on its feet and the players caged shot after shot from almost impossible angles. The game was scoreless for the first eight minutes, both teams missing easy chances, but Carrington and Lynchburg in the scoring with two neat shots in rapid succession. Faulkner retaliated for the Cadets with a two-hand overhead shot while moving away from the basket. The Cadets sprang in the last five minutes of the half, which ended in their favor, 13 to 10. For the first five minutes of the second period the teams battled evenly, Carrington being strong on passing and dribbling but weak on snow-balls. With a lapse of lead in the last three minutes, V. M. I. ran in three substitutes. Carrington, the individual star of the game, threw a scare into the Cadets with two beautiful shots that did not touch the rim, but the rally came too late. The entire V. M. AN UNGRATEFUL COP. LONDON, Jan. 31.—A West London traffic policeman was straitened by a rush-door jam. A well-dressed woman sauntered out, where he stood. "I'll tell this man up, Ducky, and you can 'old the other up yourself," she said. But the cop couldn't see it that way. And the judge agreed that only a wee bit more Scotch could have prompted such extraordinary kindness.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—In yesterday's market some groups of stocks closed higher, a few lower, but the majority of all stocks showed a loss at the end of the day. I think this is due to the fact that a good many longs were willing to part with some of their holdings, which is quite logical considering the extent of the advance and the political uncertainty that prevails.

Some voting done in Washington yesterday shows clearly the drift of sentiment there and the chances are this would be duplicated in the country if a popular vote was taken today. But conditions are so sound, the wonderful money situation, the big business in steel—which is a pretty good guide to what we will have a little later in general business—may, in a little way, counteract the political influence and everything may be all right in the end. And I therefore am of the opinion that while we should have some recessions in the market right now I would want to buy stocks after such reactions.

MORNING COTTON LETTER.

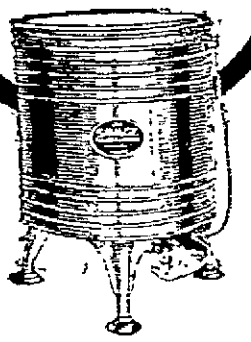

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Sales in Liverpool this a. m. of 12,000 bales indicate a much better spot demand and on the midway quotations our market should open 15 or 20 points higher. Should we have an advance I think there will be lots of cotton for sale here and the way the market acts in the first 20 minutes should be a guide for the day's course of prices. Sales are only advanced on strong spots.

The driver on the other hand said he had been delayed by a traffic jam. And his argument proved more convincing.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 30.—No leather-bound ledgers and journals for Louis Gangi, Jr.

And you don't need to haul out any of these here slick adding machines or rapid-fire multiplying and subtracting typewriters, either, when he starts a-figurin'.

For, Louis is, succeeding with a bookkeeping system all his own.

To "go-getting" office managers, his way seems pretty crude. And crude it is.

In fact, it's prehistoric. Howard Carter would think those funny characters were hieroglyphics from old Tut's tomb.

Just the same, it's all good enough for Louis. Has to be. He can read and write only the simplest words, for he's only in "Two-A grade, I tella you."

Yet with all, the energetic little Italian youth has become a merchant prince at 13. He's the richest kid in his whole school. And by his own effort has he made his "stake."

Louis is a familiar figure in Memphis' downtown business district. Along his route of 20-odd blocks, he trudges every day, always calling his wares in the same three words, "Delish! Delish candy!"

Louis' debtors are many. A purchase, credit extended, an agile pencil and an uncanny knack for seeing distinguishing figures—and the transaction is completed.

Two negro elevator boys in the Memphis Press building are steady debtors. But Luke Cornelius Jones' name never goes down in Louis' little book. Instead there's a sketch of an elevator cage and inside a somewhat true likeness of diminutive Cornelius.

It's the same all over the plant. The editor—also extended credit at times—is pictured with glasses and a phone. The society editor and others are also portrayed as Louis entries. Even the hairy-chested stereotyping foreman is pictured, and 100 other customers.

But Louis is soon going to make his customers walk. He plans to open a store when he has $1000, and his bank account now shows $900—even if he can't write.
